Campaign urges aliya for doctors

A new aliya campaign will provide up to $60,000 in grants to doctors under 40 who chose to leave their homes overseas and make aliya.

The campaign, launched by Nefesh B'Nefesh and the New York-based Legacy Heritage Fund, will be offered to British and North American doctors.

The initiative comes to help compensate for an expected shortage in doctors, since Israel's medical schools currently aren't training enough doctors to maintain the current ratio of some 3.5 doctors per thousand Israelis.
